The oldest aerial photo with sufficient resolution dates to 1954.

Some iteration of the gravel roads serving Imperial Lode have existed since 1879, connecting the Millsite, Lower Adit, and Upper Adits. The site was expanded in the 1920's, and roads were widened and added to accommodate contemporary mining equipment. Due to the unpaved nature of the road, it has varied in location over time.

In 1991, the previous owners applied for a BLM right-of-way grant (IDI-27791) to realign the driveway to allow for shallower grades and better turning radii, and to place more of the driveway within the private property lines.
